In early December 1964, the University announced it had acquired the papers of Sylvia Beach, the famed publisher and Paris bookseller who befriended and supported leading literary figures in the 1920s and '30s, including James Joyce and Ernest Hemingway. Beach, who spent most of her life in Paris and died in 1962, had grown up in Princeton, where her father, Rev. Sylvester Beach 1876, was a pastor at First Presbyterian Church.
